÷	2	MUSIC:	THEME
	3	ANNOUNCER:	In many of our National Forests, both wild deer and domestic
	4		cattle occupy the same range. In first the Forest Rangers
,	5	•	often encourage this double use of the same land It's
	6		entirely possible, and practical, in places where n ral
4	7		food is sufficient to accommodate both kinds of animals.
	8		It takes proper management and control of both the big game
	9		and the domestic livestock, of course, so that the land is
	10		not overworked. If this happens the numbers of big game
	11		and livestock must be adjusted in fairness to all interests,
	12		public and private alike Now to the Pine Cone Ranger
	13		Station where we find Ranger Jim Robbins talking to his
	14		old friend Walt Matthews, the State Game Commissioner, about
	15		the deer hunting season soon to open locally. Here they

	17	JIM:	(FADING IN) Yes, it all looks fine down on paper, Walt.
	18		Now if we can just get through the regulated deer hunt
	19		without any hitches
	20	WALT:	Without any hitches? What do you mean, Jim?
	21	JIM:	The best laid plans of mice and men go oft astray, you know.
	22	WALT:	Yeah, but what could possibly happen to mess up the hunt,
	23		Jim?
	24	JIM:	Well, there's a lot of private land mixed up in the Bull
	25		Creek section of the national forest, you know. It's not solid government land.

	1	WALT:	Sure, but you get along okay with the ranchers, don't you?
	5	JIM:	Yes, we do pretty well.
ļ	3	WALT:	Okay then. Now, if you're worrying about not getting enough
	4		deer taken out to keep that deer herd in balance with their
7	6		food supply on the range, forget it! The applications for
	6		hunting permits are coming in fine, Jim.
	7	JIM:	Yes, I reckon there's a lot of folks itching to get a nice
٠	8		fat deer. Y'know, Walt, every deer that comes out of Bull
	9		Creek is going to make the meat situation around here that
	10		much easier.
•	11	WALT:	Yeah, and what about the hide situation? Uncle Sames
	12		calling for all the deer hides he can get this year, don't
	13		forgetBut that's beside the point right now, Jim. You'r.

1	WALT:	Yes. I'm still here, Jorry
2	JIM:	What's up, Jerry?
3	JERRY:	I just saw Tom Barlow down in Winding Creek, Jim.
4	JIM:	Tom Barlow, huh? "He's one of the Bull Creek manchers, Walt.
5		A lot of his land's inside the forest boundary.
6	WALT:	Oh.
7	JERRY:	Barlow wanted me to tell you that he and that whole Bull
8		Creek crowd are pulling out.
9	JIM:	Pulling their land out of the management area? When?
10	JERRY:	Right away.
11	WALT:	They can't do that, can they, Jim? Don't you have an
12		agreement with those folks?
13	JIM:	Yes, but only a yearly basis, Walt. They can do what they
14		want to. It's their land after all But just the same it
16		kinda hurts. We've been years building up that management
16		area, Valt. For proper and sensible handling it needs all
17		the land that's in it right now, public as well as private
18		landJerry, 11d Barlow tell you what's behind
19		(TELEPHONE RINGS) there's the phone.
20	JERRY:	I'll get it, Jim. (RECENVER OFF) Hello, Ranger Station.
21		Who?Yeah, he's here. Hold on a minuteIt's for you,
22		Mr. Mathews.
23	WALT:	Huh, I wonder who'd be calling me here Thanks, Jerry
24		(TO PHONE) Matthews speaking Oh, hello, Bob Yes?
25		(SLIGHT PAUSE) That's it, huh? Well, I don't know Bob
		I better call you back after I talk with Jim Robbins
		RightGoodbye (RECEIVER NOWN) That was Bob Swift, Jim.

N N
.1	JERRY:	Bob Swift? President of the Pine Cone County Sortsman's
· 2		Club?
3	WALTE	Yeah This fellow Barlow sure gets around, Jim. Bob just
· 4		tangled with him.
···/5	JIM:	About the hunt, I recken?
8	WALT:	Right. Bob says the Bill Creek ranchers are going to
?		post their land against hunting this season.
-8	JERHY:	Good gravy, those men are on the warpath, aren't they?
9	WALT:	Jim, what's it all about? Does this mean we're going to
10		have to call the hunt off?
- 22	JIM:	It does if we can't get his business straightened out,
12		pronto. The deer range over that whole Bull Creek
13		area. They don't pay any attention to ownership lines.
14	WALT:	Gosh, if the deer get too thick up there they'll ruin the
15		range, and starve themselves out. And then the ranchers'll
18		be hollering for getting rid of all the 'eer and the
17		sportsmen'll want to save the deer and get vid of all the
18		cattle, and it'll be a sweet mees all around What can
19		we do, Jim?
20	JIM:	I don't know. Maybe we could get the boys together, all
21		of 'em we can, at a little meeting.
25	JERRY:	The ranchers and the hunters? That's out, Jir. Those men
23		can't just drop their work to have a social tea together,
24		these days.
28	WALT:	· I wouldn't say it'd be any sociable tea party, exactly, anyhow.

1	JIM:	Say! Why not, Walt? Maybe not tea but why not coffee
2		and doughnuts? We could meet at night, around a campfire
3		right up there on the Bull Creek range.
4	WALT:	Maybe you've got something there, Jim. They're all out-door
75		men, so to speak, with the common bond of Nature between
6		'em, whether they know it or not Maybe we can save this
7		deer hunt after all.
.8	JIM:	There's more to all this than just this hunt, Walt,
9		however important the hunt might be.
10	JERRY:	Sure, we got next year's use of the range to worry about.
- 11	JIM:	Yep, what's at sake here is the whole philosophy of proper
12		land management, with everybody in there punching for the
13		common good Well, we're wasting time, Walt. You call
14		Bob Swift and tell him to round up all the men he can
15		Jerry, you and I are heading for Bull Creek.
16	WALT:	When are you planning to have this outdoor meeting?
17	JIM:	Right now, Walt. Tonight.
18	WALT:	(DOUBTFULLY) I don't know, Jim
19	JIM:	Here, none of that, Walt. You get those hunders together,
20		as many as you and Bob can. I know we can get Barlow and
21		his bunch to go along with us on this meeting at least.
22		We'll see you at 8 o'clock tonight up there on High Park
23		in the Bull Creek areaReady, Jerry?
24

JERRY: Yeah, I guess so. I'm not so sure it's gonna work, Jim, but anyway, I'm all for those doughnuts (FADE) and coffee. 3 PAUSE: FADE IN BACKGROUND CROWD CHATTER - (POSSIBLE TO HAVE BANJU STRUIMING OR 6 VOICE WITH "HOME ON THE RANGE" THROUGH FOLLOWING?) ,5 JEHRY: (THROUGH CROWD AND BACKGROUND MUSIC) Say, Jim hrs. Robbins 6 sure fixed up a swell batch of doughnats. Look at those 17 fellas lapping 'em up ... Say, aren't you having any? .0 JIM: Maybe later on, Jerry..... H-m-m- Look: to me like this 9 bunch is too happy, almost, and too friendly, That von's 10 solve anything. 11 WALT: (COMING ON) Hey. Jim. this was a great idea. You'd never 12 know there was any misunderstanding in this crowd. 13 em all sitting around the fire together. Even Tom 14 Barlow and Bob Swift. See 'em over there, talking real 1.5 friendly? 16 JIM: Yeah, probably about everything else but what a in all our 17 minds.... I reckon we better get started though, Walt. 18 WALT: Yeah, sure... (VOICE UP) All right, men. (CROWD NOISE 19 OUT) Jim Robbins thought I ought to ast as kind of chairman 20 here tonight seeing as how I'm the person least interested 21 in this local situation. (CROWD LAUGHS) Well, have it 22 your way ... At any rate, this informal meetings opened. 23 You all know what's up and this is a swell turnout. Now. 24 anybody s welcome to speak right out. (SLICHT PAUSE) 25 Come on, men. We won't get anywhere if we don't bring this business out in the open.

JIM: Just a minute. Walt....Fellas. I hope you haven't gotten 1 2 the impression that calling this kind of a meeting tonight was just pure sull duggery, tryin' to bribe you with a lot 3 of doughnuts and hot coffee and soften you up to our 4 way of thinking. I'll admit we did hope it'd get everybody 5 in a kind of reasonable frame of mind, all right, and it 6 looks like everybody's mellow and friendly. But that's no 7 reason why we can't bring out the issues here and klok 8 'em around between us, and maybe clear up some of them. 9 What about it. Tom Barlow Can't you give us the 10 ranchers' side of this? 11 TOM: Okay, Jim. That's fair enough, I reckon. Truth is, 12 13 Jim, us ranchers have felt for a long time that we were 14 kinda getting a raw doal from the hunters every year they came up here to Bull Creek. (CROWD MURMUR) 15 Well, you asked for it 16 WALT: 17 Go on, Tom, TOM: We kinda pride ourselves on our breeding stock, us 18 ranchers do. And with the war on and need for meat so great 19 nobody can blame us for wanting to keep our breeders in 20 the best shape possible. 21 WALT: What's the point, Tom?

TOM: Just this, Mr. Game Commissioner. In the past these hunting boys haven't given much consideration to our cattle that've been sharing the range with the deer they'ra especially interested in. That's regulated in a lotta crazy , 5 hunting and tomfoolery shooting and the like that's kept our cattle disturbed and arunning, knocking the fat off 'em. That's been ane of the aroubles. JIM: I rackon there's something to that complaint, too, Tom. . 8

1 WALT: What else you got against the hunters, Tom? I notice you 2 got 'em squirming a bit. (CROWD LAUGHS) They can speak up later if they want to. 4 TOM: Well, the other thing's this. As Jim Robbins knows, himself, 5 us ranchers have gone to a lotte expense building up and maintaining good watering places for our stock. Well, to the hunters, those watering places have bee just so many dad-blamed 9 good camping spots to keep the cattle away from and use 9 themselves. And nothing makes a cattleman madder than to have 10 his watering places closed to his cattle. Well, this year we 11 decided to do something about it. We figured it was time, 15 maybe, to post our land and 18 JIM: Wait a minute, will you, Tom? I'd like to say a few words , 14 before you go on ... 1 JIM: Thanks... Tom, I know now how you and these other Bull Creek 2 ranchers feel about all this. And I recken some of the blame's 3 mine for not trying to do something about it sooner. Just the 4 same. Tom. this thing that's come up between you and the 6 hunters, I don't think you ought to let it wreck the land arrangement we've got here in Bull Creek. Cattle's one thing, 6 7 deer's another, and the land's another. Together they make up this whole Bull Creek area. And since we started this 8 9 cooperative management together, we've seen good cattle go 10 to market, we've had an annual hervest of good deer, and we've 11 helped to sustain the growth of good feet for both the cattle 12 and the deer. It took the national forest land and your ranch land together to work it out, but management of this area 13 has been to your own profit and the public good. I think 14 it'll be a doggoned shame if you let what happens during a 15 short hunting period break up an area that's so valuable an a 18 complete management unit, year in and year out ... There ought to 27 be some way to iron out your difficulties with the hunters and 1.8 well, that's all I got to say ... (CROWD LAUGHS) Well, 19 doggone it, what's so funny? 20 21 TOM: (LAUGHING) Don't take it so seriously, Jim. 22 JIM: This is a serious matter, Tom. Maybe you fellows don't 22 TOM: Of course it's serious. We weren't laughing at what you said. It's true, every bit of it. And every single man here tonight 24 knows it, Jim. It's just that we're way ahead of you. 25

4	TOM:	That's right, Mr. Game Commissioner. We're all straightened
5		away. Bob Swift and I kinda worked it all up with the
6		fellas while we were dunking doughnuts. We've come to an
7		agreement. (SLOWLY) Us ranchers are going to gather our
8		beef animals and work it so that our breeding stock will graze
9		away from the hunting areas during the shooting period. For
10		their part, the hunters are going to keep our gates closed,
11		and camp away from the watering places. That, along with the
12		fact that there won't be any ammunition to waste on senseless
13		shooting this year, ought to fix things up okay. You can have

19		That's all it took, getting us together out here on the
